

MUSGA FORGETS HE WAS STABBED

Remarkable Lapse of Memory
Results in Acquittal of La Mike.

ABBREVIATED VOCABULARY
PECULIAR CASE TRIED BY JUDGE
ARMSTRONG.

After spending a month in a hospital and another month in jail Mike Musga yesterday forgot that he had ever been stabbed or robbed, and as a result a felted by the jury which tried him in Judge Armstrong's court on the charge of robbery.

La Mike and Musga were, on the night of Dec. 12 last, in the saloon of Nick Butkovich, on Third West street. They went out with several other Austrians and in a scuffle Musga was stabbed in the back and robbed of $16. La Mike was arrested and lodged in jail, where he has been resting up to yesterday. Musga went to the hospital, getting out early in January. During February he got into a fight and was arrested on a charge of attempting to commit murder.

Both the accused and Musga have apparently patched up their differences since they have been in jail together, because Musga remembered absolutely nothing when placed on the stand yesterday as the state's star witness.

"Do you know you were stabbed?" asked P. T. Farnsworth, Jr., assistant county attorney, who conducted the prosecution.

"No," came the laconic reply.

"Do you know you were robbed?"

"No."

"What do you know?"

"No."

This was as far as Farnsworth could get with the Austrian, who, after the jury had freed La Mike, was led back to the county jail to await his trial on the charge of attempted murder.

Buckle, and no testimony was introduced.

AN INSIDIOUS DANGER.

One of the worst features of kidney trouble is that it is an insidious disease and before the victim realizes his danger he may have a fatal malady. MRS. KOOYMAN GETS DIVORCE AND CUSTODY OF FOURTEEN CHILDREN

After the juvenile court had made a formal order placing one of the children of the famous Kooymann family in the State street orphanage, Gertrude Kooymann, the mother, went into Judge Armstrong's court and secured a decree of divorce from John Kooymann.

Nothing of the rather notorious career of the family during the past six months was told by the wife, as she simply alleged non-support. She said at first that she was married in 1908, but when questioned more closely managed to revise the figures and make it 1909. Since that time she has borne Kooymann fourteen children.

She told Judge Armstrong that since she filed the suit last September Kooymann has given her only $50 for the support of the family. Her daughter Minnie said that they had taken in washing for a long period.

Judge Armstrong granted the divorce as prayed and awarded the wife $3 a month alimony and the custody of the children.

Whether this order will have the effect of annulling the juvenile court decree taking two of the children from the mother on the ground that she is not a fit person to care for them remains to be seen. By some it is contended that the order of Judge Armstrong must prevail when he granted her the custody of the youngsters he assumed that she was a proper person to control them.

It is not likely, however, that Mrs. Kooymann will fight the case as she is hardly able to earn enough to support the remainder of her family.

Penurious Ed McCarty.

Addie McCarty was granted a divorce from Ed McCarty and was restored to her maiden name of Addie Calhoun.

Addie told a most pathetic tale of wretchedness on the part of her husband. They were married July 8, 1907, and since that time she says he gladdened her heart with a $5 bill and then he went to Nevada and wrote to her for it. Like a good wife she obeyed the command of her lord and master and therefore did not net anything on the deal.

The wife said that she has been working in hotels in order to support herself.

and the last place she was employed was the Wellington hotel.

Mary E. Crowton had everything "fixed" at her husband's apartment, because she filed her divorce suit yesterday morning along with a waiver of all rights by Fred Crowton, Jr., and in the afternoon was granted a divorce.

The wife charged cruel and inhuman treatment. She said that she married Crowton March 23, 1914, and blamed him particularly for an incident which happened March 21 last. On that occasion her husband came home and "punched her face" according to her allegation. She also asserted that one of the diversions of her husband was the use of abusive and vile language toward her.

Mabel Youngberg was the last one to draw a divorce. Mabel married Joseph W. Youngberg Jan. 3, 1907, and the next month they went to Bingham to live with the wife's stepfather. Since that time she said her husband has contributed nothing to her support and her evidence was corroborated by the stepfather James C. Gibbs. All told she says her husband has $20, but borrowed most of it back at once.

JAIL IN SAN JUAN COUNTY

Sheriff Emery Says Discovery Below
Bluff Is Attracting Much Attention.

Sheriff J. H. Wood of San Juan county came to Salt Lake yesterday for L. J. Lockhart, an alleged horse thief, who has been kept in the county jail here since he fell for the San Juan authorities. The sheriff left last night with his prisoner. Sheriff Wood said that San Juan county is now chiefly interested in the oil strike in the Goodrich well, twenty-five miles below Bluff on the San Juan river. In this well, the oil fields, the sheriff said, are about 100 miles from the nearest railroad point, Dolores, Colo. When oil was first struck in the Goodrich well, he said, the oil spouted twelve feet in the air. After the gas had escaped the oil sank to a level sixty feet below the surface. Several barrels of oil he said, have been pumped out, for use as fuel in the sinking of other and larger wells, but no effort has yet been made in pumping the capacity of the Goodrich well.
